- Another family favourite returns albeit in an unusual setting: The Railway Children pulls in at the former Eurostar terminal at Waterloo Station in a new staging, with performances taking place either side of the original track to Saturday 4 September.

The production features a period steam train as well as the original saloon carriage from the 1970 film; daily children's activities, model railway and exhibitions are also available onsite.

- Summer has come early to the heart of Hammersmith with Lyric Square's Urban Beach, complete with seaside-style deck chairs and ice cream gazebos, allowing visitors to kick back and enjoy entertainment each lunchtime to Saturday 31 July.

Just opened as well on nearby St Paul's Green is a retro pop-up outdoor library with classic board games and a reading area on offer, along with a weekly second-hand book exchange on Fridays and storytelling and reading aloud sessions for young'uns every weekend to Sunday 5 September.
